

ACCURATE WIRE LOAD MODEL

Abstract

A method for creating a wire load model using specific interconnect configuration information is provided. Further, a program that creates a wire load model by curve-fitting parasitic information and interconnect configuration information is provided. Further, a computer system capable of creating an accurate wire load model using parasitic information specific to particular metal layers is provided.

20202_1

09989597-112001